Joe Wilson was hauled in yesterday for disturbing the peace. Wilson and his wife separated some time ago, and yesterday's trouble was the result of former dimeulties. An examination into the facts of the case resulted in his discharge.

The agents of all the express companies in the city have received instructions to "dead head" all packages sent to the Johnstown sufferers. Any donations for the relief of the inhabitants of the stricken district will be carried to the sufferers free of charge. The regular meeting of the Retail Merchants' association was adjourned last even-ing on account of the relief meeting held at the opera house, in the interest of the Johns-town sufferers. The meeting will occur on Friday evening, at 8 o'clock sharp, in the library room at the county court house. At the meeting of St. Alban's lodge No.

The promenade festival given by the ladies of St. Francis Xavier's church, at Masonic temple, last evening was a grand success. The large hall was filled, and the programme rendered was greatly appreciated. The con-cert-given by the Mandolin and Guitar club of Omaha was very fine, and some excellent music was furnished. Several beautiful solos were rendered by Mrs. O'Neill, Mrs. Darraugh and Mr. Burkley. The proceeds were about $150.

The directors of the Milwaukee railroad company gave this city the go by on their trip over the lowalines of the company this week. They left Milwaukee Sunday even-ing, passed through Minesota and Dakota, and back through this state. Superintendent Campbell came in here to meet them, but they went from Sioux City to Manila Junc-tion, on their way home, and he joined them at the latter place Tuesday evening. They returned home yesterday.

The mass meeting held at Dohany's last evening, in the interest of the Johnstown sufferers, was not a howling success, the at-tendance being very small. This was un-doubtedly owing to the fact that the city had been well canvassed during the day by the committee soliciting donations, and as nearly all had responded, the public did not care to have the same thing rehearsed again. The meeting first and the committee afterwards might have resulted more successfully.

A Car Load of Charity. The car of provisions for the relief of the Johnstown sufferers will not be sent until to-day on account of delay in loading. About four hunared sacks of flour were donated yesterday, and this amount will be greatly increased to-day. The Northwest-ern company furnishes a special car to take the provisions to the sufferers. The committee were busy all day yesterday, and the cit-izens responded very generously. No one refused to contribute to the relief of the unfortunate, and a full car load of Council Bluffs charity leaves to-night for the relief of the survivors of the stricken valley.

The Barbers Talking of Getting a Weekly Rest-Relief For Johnstown Sufferers-Brief News Bits.

The City's Assessment.

The city assessor has finished looking over his books, and figuring out the exact amount of the charges made by the board of equaliza-The total assessment made by him was $5,355,148, and the board of equalization raised this sum $76,850. The railroad assessment is $658,660, making the total city assessment $6,120,658, as compared with about $4,500,000 two years ago. It was estimated that the raise made by the board of equalization would amount to about $100,000, and it would have considerably exceeded that sum, but, just before finally adjourning, the assessment of the Kimball-Champ Investment company, which nad been raised from $10,000 to $30,000, was reduced to $14,800, and the assessment of the Omaha & Council Bluffs Railway and Bridge company was reduced from $100,000 to $66,000. As finally settled, the assessment of 1889 shows an increase of considerable over $1,500,000.

Sunday Shaving.

The barbers of the city are getting ready for business, and will push the Sunday closing scheme in a vigorous manner. A meeting is called for this evening, and all journeymen barbers and proprietors of shops favoring the idea are requested to meet at John Schicketanz' shop, 104 South Main street, between 8:30 and 9 o'clock. The tonsorial artists are in earnest, and are bound to put a stop to Sunday chin scraping and hair cutting, if it is possible.

Said one barber to THE BEE yesterday. "It is all foolishness to keep us at work Sunday forenoons. If there was any use of it I wouldn't kick, but it is unnecessary. Week in and week out there is very little doing Saturday foreneous, and it is the same after 9 o'clock Saturday evening. Then again, Sunday morning, until 9 o'clock, we don't have much to do, but from 9 o'clock until noon we have to jump. If we were busy Saturday morning, or until 11 o'clock Saturday night, there might be some excuse for running Sunday morning, but they haven't that fact to urgo. There is any amount of customers who could get shaved Saturday night just as well as not, but they rather like the idea of hav-ing a good excuse to come down town Sun-day morning, for then they not only get their shave, but they look over the papers, smoke a social cigar, talk over the sporting news of the week, and generally drop into some of the card parlors for a quiet game of crib or high five. This makes a very pleasant forenoon for them, and it all follows their morning statement that they must go down town and get shaved. It often happens that they get shaved closer outside the barber's chair than they do in it.

"But we don't care about that. We are looking out for ourselves and we want a change. If this movement is carried out, it will put a stop to all of them, whether they want to close or not. If we decide to close, we will prosecute every barber who works on Sunday, as the Iowa law covers the matter. You see, it will be an all around shutdown, if we conclude that we will not work sunday the stop of the s Sunday. Some of the proprietors have got the notion into their heads that that this move is all on account of the barbers' union, and one of them, in advertising for a new man, states that no union man need apply. Such an idea is a very foolish one to enterunion has nothing whatever to do with it. The fact is that there are more non-union men supporting the move than there are union men. We will decide to-morrow night what to do, and I am very sure that the de-cision will be to close. A man can't stand at a chair seven days in a week just for fun. There isn't a barber in this city who takes in over $3.70 any Sunday morning, and that is between 9 and 12 o'clock. It might just as well come in Saturday night, and we will see if we can't effect a change."

Laid at Rest.

The funeral of F. A. Burke took place at 2 o'clock, yesterday afternoon, from the family residence, 623 Washington avenue, Rev. G. W. Crofts, of the congregational church, officiating. The services were attended by a large number of people, who gathered to pay their last tributes of respect to the memory of an old and honored citizen. Among those in attendance were many of the old residents of this city and county, as well as a number from Omaha. The Odd Fellow lodges of the city were in attendance in a body, and after the services at the house were completed, the remains were taken in charge by the members of the order, and conveyed to the Fairview cemetery, where they were laid to rest with the ceremonies of the Odd Fellow ritual. The pall bearers were N. A. Taylor, G. I. Jacobs, J. N. Cassady, John Schickstany, S. S. Keller and Thomas Bowman.

A Bigamy Suit. The bigamy case of State vs Brown occu pied the attention of the district court all of yesterday, and when court adjourned last evening was but well under way. The prosecuting witness, Mary Sutton, was on the stand the entire day. The direct examination was finished before 11 o'clock, and Coloner Daily occupied the remainder of the day in cross examination, which was not yet completed. He evidently hopes to make much of his case from her testimony, and is working hard on each little detail. The fourt room was thronged all day, but the testimony was not quite what they expected. The case will hardly be completed to day.

Groundless Apprehension, Certain parties and certain papers in the city have been attempting, on seemingly very poor grounds, for the past day or two, to create a sensation, and a deal of apprehension, regarding the safety of Judge Reed, of this city, and congressman from this district, by alleging that he must have been a passenger on one of the trains sidetracked at Johnstown, at the time of the recent flood. and therefore probably among the lost. This apprehension was not shared by the family of Judge Reed, but they telegraphed, yesterday, to ascortain his wherebouts. Two answers were received, one from Mr. Hepburn, at Washington, and the other from Judge Reed, who is in Washington county, Pennsylvania. The judge stated that he was visiting relatives at that point, and had not been at Johnstown. He is well and expects to be home before long. The following is the other telegram, snowing the whereabouts of the judge at the time of the disaster:

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 5.—To S. J. Reed: Do not know whether Judge Reed is now in Washington or not, but he was here as late as last Monday. W. P. HEFBURN. and therefore probably among the lost. This

J. G. Tipton, real estate, 527 B'dway SAD HISTORY OF A CAT.

You Will Recognize Him by the Tomato Can Over His Head.

A person who has evidently been driven insane through the midnight music of cats sends the following communication to the St. Louis Republic: My tortoise shell cat was presented to me five times; each time he returned to the place of his birth, to be thrown into a willow basket and hustled back to me. He continued to act in this way receiving a new name each time until he was hardly presentable. The name which seemed to please him best was that of Sardanapalus. I called him so, not only because this oriental hero has never had even a disease named in honor of him, but because early in life the cat evinced a liking for licking out the interior of sardine cans.

In the course of time Sardanapalus developed into a strong, manly cat, with a full-blown nose. He mixed a great deal in society, chiefly at night. As soon as any one was sirring in the morning he would enter the study and curl up on the unabriged dictionary to take his day's rest. Managing by strict economy to make both ends meet, here he would lie, growling and striking out viciously whenever I wiped my pen on him or wished to ransack Webster for the missing "e" in judgment. But, alas, the morning of the 14th prought not my Sardanapalaus to me. After a moment's search we discovered him in a vacant lot near by, endeavoring to free himself from an empty corn can, which, as he was exploring its debths, had caught firmly in the fur behind his ears. The can had been opened only at one end, but a hole had been punched in the other end so that Sardanapalaus could breathe easily and view the surrounding landscape to a limited extent. I approached cautiously to remove his sunbonnet, but the instant I laid my hand tenderly upon him he shot down the street and was gone like a streak of good luck, knocking as he went two baby carriages off the track and leaving his pursuers far in the rear. I went to the nearest drug store to telephone to all my friends living in the direction in which he had started out. I asked them to get a halter and try to stop him; or, if that was not possible, to head him off.

But none of them succeeded and we never heard of him again. We listen in vain for the catlike tread of his cushioned feet. I will never again crawl out of bed, tearing the azure robe of night on a rocking chair and sweep Sardanapalus and his little band of followers off the back porch. He left nothing by which to be remembered except a few locks of his hair which I subsequently plucked from the rose bush, and the impression of his delicate form in the lettuce bed.

The Latest Bottle Trick. "I'll bet you $1,000 to $10 that you can't do it," was the startling annouce-ment overheard the other day in a fashonable club, says the Philadelphia Press. These odds were finally reduced to a bibulous basis at even money, and 'it" was then attempted. An empty quart champaign bottle was brought. and the feat consists in grasping it firmly around the neck in the hollow between the knuckles of the thumb and forefinger, and then, without allowing the bottle to incline from the perpendicular and without "jumping" it, to work the hand down gradually by the aid of the fingers until the bottom of the bottle rests in the palm of the hand. It can be done. The challenged party s one of the best known and stronges athletes in the city, but he failed in his
